

Gender Review of National Adaptation Plan (NAP) Documents

As part of its ongoing initiative on gender-responsive NAP processes, the NAP Global Network has undertaken a systematic review of NAP documents posted on the United Nations Framework Convention on Climate Change's NAP Central to assess the integration of gender considerations.

The document reviews explored how gender considerations have been addressed in the documents, as well as how women are positioned. It is important to note that most of the documents do not include much detail on the process undertaken to develop the NAP document or on strategies for implementation and monitoring and evaluation. Consequently, a lack of evidence in the document does not necessarily mean that gender has not been considered in a particular aspect of the NAP process—it may simply indicate a lack of documentation or that there is additional work to be done to elaborate on particular aspects of the plan.

Below is a summary of the gender review of Bosnia and Herzegovina's NAP document.

Country	Bosnia and Herzegovina
Document reviewed	Bosnia and Herzegovina National Adaptation Plan – NAP with proposed measures
Gender and or women referenced?	Yes
Summary of gender references	The NAP highlights that women commonly face higher risks and greater burdens from the impacts of climate change in situations of poverty. They participate unequally in decision-making processes but can play a critical role in responding to climate change. It also underlines the importance of using gender indicators, such as the number of women in agricultural cooperatives or the percentage of women in innovation.
Gender concepts referenced	Gender indicators Gender-disaggregated data
Context for reference to gender	Importance of using gender indicators
Positioning of women	Particularly vulnerable group Stakeholders in adaptation
