

Gender Review of National Adaptation Plan (NAP) Documents

As part of its ongoing initiative on gender-responsive NAP processes, the NAP Global Network has undertaken a systematic review of NAP documents posted on the UNFCCC's NAP Central to assess integration of gender considerations.

The document reviews explored how gender considerations have been addressed in the documents, as well as how women are positioned. It is important to note that most of the documents do not include much detail on the process undertaken to develop the NAP document, or on strategies for implementation and M&E. Consequently, a lack of evidence in the document does not necessarily mean that gender hasn't been considered in a particular aspect of the NAP process – it may simply be a lack of documentation or that there is additional work to be done to elaborate particular aspects of the plan.

Below is a summary of the review of Chile's NAP document.

Country	Chile
Document reviewed	Plan Nacional de Adaptación al Cambio Climático (2014)
Gender and/or women referenced?	Yes
Summary of gender references	The principles for the plan emphasize participation and information sharing, taking gender, social status and ethnicity into consideration. They also reference the need to prioritize adaptation measures for the most vulnerable people.
Gender concepts referenced	Gender aspects
Context for reference to gender	Consideration for implementation
Positioning of women	–

For more information on the NAP Global Network's work on gender, please visit: <http://napglobalnetwork.org/themes/gender/>

Financial support provided by:
Ce projet a été réalisé avec l'appui financier de :

Environment and
Climate Change Canada

Environnement et
Changement climatique Canada

Federal Ministry
for Economic Cooperation and Development

Secretariat hosted by:
Secrétariat hébergé par :

